Re: Regional Jail Related Grievance

Dear Mr. Braxton:

Although I sympathize with your issues, please be advised that until you are sentenced to the custody of the Division of Corrections this division has no jurisdiction over you. Further, while you are housed in a regional jail, you are subject to the rules and procedures that govern the West Virginia Regional Jail Authority. This office would advise you to use the Regional Jail Authority's grievance procedure to address your issues. If you have previously utilized the provided grievance procedure offered by the Regional Jail Authority without the desired relief, and have exhausted all available administrative relief, you are free to seek redress in the appropriate civil court.

Sincerely,

Beverly C. Gandee
Inmate Grievance Coordinator

institution through the institutional authorities. If the inmate does not consent, the personnel may either deliver the inmate's mail to the inmate unopened, or return it to the post office unopened, or return it to the post office unopened and marked "Refused". An inmate may designate in writing an agent outside the institution to receive his or her mail, either through an authorized address of the agent, if the mail is so addressed, or at the delivery post office serving the institution, if the mail is addressed to the inmate at the institution."

The Postal Service fulfills its obligation when it affects delivery to institutional authorities. Records of delivery are kept only for Registered, Certified, Numbered Insured or COD mail. You can report the loss of any mail (accountable or ordinary) by initiating a Form 1510, Mail Non-Delivery Report. These forms should be available at your prison mailroom; however, if they are not, the prison authorities can obtain blank forms from the local post office.

As noted above, our obligation for delivery ends with the proper delivery to the institution. Any subsequent handling falls under the purview of the West Virginia Department of Corrections, whose address is:

Commissioner
West Virginia Division of Corrections
112 California Avenue, Bldg. 4, Room 300
Charleston, WV 25305

Consequently, if you believe prison officials are mishandling your mail, I suggest you pursue this matter administratively through the Department of Corrections.

Sincerely,

James R. Hoke
Postal Inspector

Dear Mr. Braxton,

This is in response to your letter the U.S. Postal Inspection Service. Your letter was referred to me for review.

Please be advised that there is no form available from the Postal Service for the request that you are making. Our Post Operations Manual (POM 615.1) states the follow: Mail addressed to patients or inmates at institutions is delivered to institution authorities who, in turn, deliver the mail to the addressee under the institution's rules and regulations. If the addressee is no longer at that address, the institution must redirect his or her mail to the current address. If the forwarding address is unknown, the mail is returned to the post office.

A number of Federal court decisions concerning the right of inmates to receive and send correspondence have established constitutional limits on the authority of prison authorities to censor incoming and outgoing mail. These court decisions have been based on constitutional grounds, not on violations of the Postal laws. If a court issues an order concerning inmates' correspondence privileges, the responsibility to obey the order is placed upon the prison authorities. Any mail that is refused is returned to the sender.

If you believe your mail is not being handled properly after delivery to the facility, please contact the authorities having administrative jurisdiction over that institution. In addition, you may wish to contact a representative of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) or a similar local organization.
